THE GREAT QUESTION AT THE SOUTH.

For some months the loyal States have been convulsed with the great issue between Congress and the President in the matter of reconstruction. But now, even before the elections, the question is regarded as settled in the North, that the rebel States must either come in on the terms proposed by Congress, or not at all. Now, the question, "Shall we accept the terms proposed by Congress, and ratify the amendments to the Constitution?" is given to the people of the ten rebel States to settle among themselves. Tennessee, happily for herself, has already accepted the terms; but in some of the other States fierce and angry contests may be expected. Still, they will all ultimately yield, and, in yielding, will be constrained to give to the loyal minorities in their midst substantial triumphs. The President's "policy" will hereafter be regarded as a thing of the past—a project discarded and flung aside, no more to be discussed.

This is right. The rebels began the war: let them finish it among themselves.

REV. U. BALKANE, of Lewistown, Maine, delegate at large from that State to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention, was unavoidably detained until Wednesday night, just after the regular proceedings had closed. We had the pleasure of an interview with that gentleman yesterday, and found him animated with the spirit which enabled that noble commonwealth, with one shot, to shatter the frail but imposing fabric which was created in Philadelphia, based on "My Policy."

THE Utica (N. Y.) Herald is responsible for the statement that Secretary SEWARD said to a Union Colonel, after witnessing the popular demonstrations in the West: "I would give my right arm if I could be placed back to the 22d of February." If he were to give both arms he could not accomplish his desire. A great reputation has gone under eclipse, not to come out again.

AMONG the new Philadelphia appointments was the name of Colonel W. A. GRAY, the only soldier in the list, and he a meritorious one. The slate, at the last moment, was changed, by taking off Col. GRAY'S name, and putting on Mr. SNOWDEN'S, an old incumbent in the mint under Democratic rule. The soldiers have to stand back for such as they.

—"We honor loyalty and detest treason," was a favorite motto through the war. The motto of the President now is: "We honor treason and detest loyalty."

Grand Procession.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY IN PITTSBURGH.

Speeches at the Wigwam.

The procession of yesterday was a fitting demonstration with which to close the great Soldiers and Sailors' Convention of the two preceding days. To say it was a success would be but a tame expression—it was grand, beautiful, and superb pageant in point of display and patriotic enthusiasm never excelled in this city—and we might safely say in this commonwealth. And in this it disappointed the projectors of the parade who apprehended, owing to the inclemency of the weather on Wednesday, and the excitement under which the various delegations present here had been kept during the week, a falling off in the numbers and character of the parade compared with that of Tuesday evening.

When the gray dawn stole out of its eyrie in the east, it revealed sombre black clouds drifting in great ragged masses over a pale bluish leaden sky, which to the inexperienced eyes of many an observer, portended a coming storm.

But as the day advanced the clouds began to draw off to the east, until at half past nine o'clock the great round brilliant face of old Sol shone out, bathing the city in a dazzling flood of golden sunlight, and gladdening the hearts of the patriotic thousands who were already thronging the streets. Everywhere bustle and preparatory excitement reigned. Marshalls in gay uniforms on elegantly caparisoned horses dashed here and there arranging the delegations in order as they marched to the place of starting. The music from a score of bands made the air vocal with the melody of sweet sounds—ladies in gala day attire were out in bevies, admiring the splendor of the scene going on about them, or lending their presence to adorn a balcony doorway or other elevated places where a good view of the procession could be had.

THE CITY.

In addition to the decorations that adorned the city on Tuesday and Wednesday, streamers, devices and flags innumerable were thrown to the breeze, heightening the effect and increasing the splendor of the ornamentation of those days in a great degree. This is especially so of the principal streets of which were one mass of evergreens, flags and flowers, in clusters and in wreaths. Stretching the entire length of the balcony of the Robinson block on Federal street, was a great streamer, on which was written in red, white and blue, in order as given below the following: "We the loyal Southerners Untainted by Treason, Unawed by Treachery."—"Lincoln." "Congress and the Constitutional Amendment"—"Grant." "Excuse Crime, Sacrifice Justice, but let not the Rebellious Exalt Themselves"—"Sherman." "A. G. Curtin, our present Governor. Gen. John W. Geary, our next Governor." "Congress can make or unmake a President—a President cannot make or unmake Congress." "The American Army Invincible on Land and the American Navy Invincible on Sea."—"Farragut." "Think of the Insulting Scorn, the Conclous Pangs, the Future has in store for the Apostate"—"Sheridan." We cannot forget Andersonville, Salisbury or Fort Pillow."

One square above a streamer was stretched across the street, on which was written, "Welcome to our Heroes." The triumphal arch in front of the city building had received new touches during Wednesday night, and its beauty was therefore considerably enhanced.

THE ARCH ON PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE.

One of the most noticeable features of the demonstration was the triumphal arch erected on Pennsylvania Avenue, near the corner of Pride street. It was composed of a square frame work fifty feet high and thirty feet wide, through the centre of which was an archway symmetrically formed and reaching almost to the top. The frame work was some four feet in thickness, covered with maroon colored paper muslin, which only peeped out here and there through a mass of evergreen and boquets of choice flowers, so profuse as to give the structure the appearance of a great floral bower with tiny flags gleaming through the emerald drapery at brief intervals.

Above the apex of the arch and in the upper corner was a ground work of mazarine blue, studded with gilded stars, and in the summit, surmounting all, stood an immense golden eagle with outstretched wings, and from his beak depended two streamers, on which was inscribed "Universal Freedom." Underneath the national bird, and in a sort of a little grotto, formed of laurel, ivy and clusters of blue forget-me-nots, was an oil portrait of Abraham Lincoln. Underneath this was a circular frame of evergreen, in the centre of which was written, "We welcome you." Two elegant silk national ensigns floated from either side of the arch, the bright sunlight kissing the folds of the glorious old banner, bringing out the lustre of its folds in striking beauty. The ladies of the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth wards deserve the thanks of the community for this beautiful token of their patriotism. As the various delegations passed through it they took off their hats and cheered heartily.

At twenty-five minutes past eleven o'clock the procession, led by General Negley as Chief Marshal, assisted by his aids, arrived at the corner of Fifth and Wood streets, where we were stationed. Following was a cavalry brigade under command of Brigadier General Sargent, with Brigadier General Schoonmaker, of the 14th Pennsylvania cavalry, as chief of staff. A mounted Indian followed the cavalry.

A brass band, consisting of seventeen musicians, followed in the rear of the cavalry, after which came four, four horse carriages, containing a number of the distinguished men of the country. In the first was Governor Curtin, Generals Banks, Barnum, Devins, Stevens and Capeheart. In the second, which also had the honor of transporting the celebrated war eagle, "Old Abe," which followed the fortunes of the 8th Wisconsin through the war, were Captain A. R. McDonald, Captain Peck, Captain Gwinn, Lieutenant Crossland, Sergeant Weissart and Sergeant Alexander Hughes. The third carried Generals Allen, Rush, Ward and Proudfit, of Wisconsin, and in the fourth were Colonels Bartlett and Chase, Captain Langworthy and Lieutenants White, Carey, Ferguson and Williams.

Three two horse carriages followed these, the first of which was occupied by General Moonlight and Colonel Anderson, of Kansas, Captain D. B. Stover, of Utah, and W. H. Bolton, of Michigan, members of the National Executive Committee.

These carriages were followed by a band wagon and brass band, the whole being drawn by eight horses splendidly caparisoned. These preceded the First Division under command of General John T. Cochrane, of New York, assisted by General A. L. Pearson as Chief of Staff, and following this was a detachment of the Fifteenth Cavalry. Carriages containing wounded soldiers followed the detachment, after which was a large delegation of the Boys in Blue on horseback. The next in order was a four horse wagon containing a glee club who sang patriotic airs as they passed along the street. Next came seventy-four horsemen, many of whom, if not all, belonged to the Enterprise Base Ball Club. Among their banners was one which read: "Hold your ball, Geary; Andy is out on a foul."

The Butchers came next, clothed in white shirts and mounted on horses, to the number of eighty-five. They made a very fine appearance. Besides this, there were a large number of others on foot. Over their white shirts each wore a broad sash of red and blue, thus blending the national colors.

JEFF'S LAST RIDE.

The next in order were thirty-six carriages containing the representations of each of the States. The rear carriage was rather comical, although somewhat tragical also. In the carriage sat an individual dressed in women's clothes, with a rope around his neck, which was held by a very determined looking individual. The legend on the side of the carriage explained the matter. It read "Jeff. Davis' last ride."

SECOND DIVISION.

The second delegation, composed of delegates from the First, Second, Third and Tenth wards, commanded by Major General Schenck, of Ohio, assisted by General Gallupe, of Pittsburgh, as Chief of Staff, came next in order. Seventeen mounted officers led the van of this division, followed by a brass band. The Missouri delegation, followed by the delegation from Brownsville, came next in order, and made a fine appearance.

A brass band followed the Brownsville delegation, after which came the Steubenville delegation. In this division there were also a squad of mounted officers and men besides two drum corps, wagons, carriages, Boys in Blue with black glazed caps, blue capes, and white gloves.

THE WARD DELEGATIONS

Turned out very strong. A bell wagon containing a chime of bells from Fulton's Foundry, and which were tolled by the employees of the Foundry, passed in succession with other wagons and carriages. There were a great many transparancies covered with mottoes in all of the wagons. The Duquesne wagon and glee club followed, singing patriotic songs; a delegation from the Pittsburgh steel works, one from the machine shops of McNisk & Butler, a heavy casting wagon bearing a large flag stone, with the motto of "this is our platform" filed along in succession. In one of the wagons was an individual dressed as a Yankee, with long hair, striped pants, high shirt collar, bell crowned hat, jack knife, and all the requisites of a first class Jonathan.

THIRD DIVISION.

The Third Division composed of delegations from the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards, commanded by Major General Dennis, of Maryland, with Colonel W. B. Neeper, as chief of staff were the next in order. The Niagara company on foot, with their hose very beautifully ornamented, and engine following in order. Then came the Columbia Hose and reel, upon which were seated two old women, with babies, and the father fanning them. The Juniata works delegation, employees of A. C. Feats in helmets, a wagon containing Boys in Blue, and a delegation from the Franklin Foundery followed in succession.

The Delegation from the Fort Pitt Foundry came next with four wagons, on the first of which was a model of the twenty inch gun, full size. The Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company, ten men, coal and coke men, draymen, wagoners and carters, wagons with women and children, two wagons containing the employes of [illegible] McClintock, a wagon full of [illegible] besides several [illegible] this division.

FOURTH DIVISION.

The Fourth division, composed of delegations from the Seventh, Eighth and Ninth wards followed, commanded by Maj. Gen. Willich, of Indiana, assisted by Col. W. A. Robinson as Chief of Staff. A brass band preceded the division, and delegations from all of the principal manufactories in these wards followed. A wagon filled with little girls representing the different States attracted a great deal of attention as they passed, the little ones making their presence known by singing patriotic songs. There were also two drum corps attached to this division, so there was no lack of music. The [illegible] Mills, [illegible] manufactories, glass works, Black Diamond Steel Works, and others, had out large delegations.

FIFTH DIVISION.

The Fifth division was composed of delegations from the First and Second Wards, Lawrenceville, and was commanded by Brig. Gen. [illegible], Col. J. B. [illegible] Chief of Staff. A Brass band led off, followed by two wagon loads of Indians, together with large delegations, in wagons, mounted and on foot, a drum corps was attached to this delegation.

SIXTH DIVISION.

The sixth division was composed of delegations from the different wards of Allegheny, commanded by Brig. Gen. Franz Sigel, Gen. Chas. W. Barnes acting as chief of staff. In this division there were also the delegations from McClure township, Monongahela borough, from the barrel makers and masons, coal wagons and iron mongers, together with a long line of carriages, horsemen, water carts, and almost every kind of vehicle.

SEVENTH DIVISION.

The seventh Division was composed of delegations from Birmingham, Brownstown, South Pittsburgh, and Mount Washington, and was commanded by Brigadier Gen. Charles Hambright, Major F. Kennedy acting as Chief of Staff. This division was largely represented, consisting of horsemen, footmen, wagons and carriages representing nearly every trade and occupation. The usual brass band and drum corps accompanied it, besides which were men dressed as women and Indians. One of the men who personated a woman caused considerable merriment, from the fact that although willing to don the petticoats for the occasion, he could not be induced to ride sideways, but stuck to the old fashion.

EIGHTH DIVISION.

The eighth division came next, and was composed of delegations from Sligo, Saw Mill Run and Temperanceville, and was commanded by Brig. Gen. Chas. Barton, Col. J. W. Baldwin acting as chief of staff. The boys had got somewhat mixed up in the procession, and had not their appropriate places on account, so we are unable to give them just as they passed. In this division there were three drum corps, two large wagons filled with little girls, singing patriotic songs, a wagon filled with [illegible] the inscription [illegible] in blue. The Third ward [illegible] from [illegible] J. Young's [illegible] & Co., and many other places. There was also a very large wagon, filled with [illegible], drawn by thirty horses, led by Mr. McKelvey. This wagon should properly have come in with the Wilkins township delegation, as that is where it belonged.

NINTH DIVISION.

This was composed of delegations from Manchester, Stewartstown, Duquesne Borough, Sharpsburg, Pine Creek, East Liberty and Wilkins, commanded by Major General A. L. Pearson, assisted by Colonel Joseph Brown as Chief of Staff. This delegation was very largely represented by mounted men, and by some footmen. Pitt township delegation had [illegible] among them. One of the most [illegible] features was a wagon containing thirty-six little girls, each of whom wore a [illegible] around her brow with the name of a State on it in gilt letters. Besides this there were delegations from the [illegible] works, Valley Forge works, Penn glass works, and other establishments.

The other divisions were in order as published, except that, owing to the lateness of the arrival of several of the delegations upon the ground, they did not take their regular places in the procession, but joined in at the corner of Penn and St. Clair street. The procession was one [illegible] and two [illegible] passing the corner of Federal and Ohio streets.

INCIDENTS.

There are many incidents connected with the day that we are obliged to lay over on account of space, but we will mention that Senator Graham yesterday gave a dinner to two hundred of the members of the Convention, and Mr. H. W. Hibbey threw open house to all who saw fit to come. Some idea of the extent of the procession may be inferred from the fact that from two to three thousand teams were brought into requisition. Eight brass bands and thirteen drum corps also attended. We will resume our incidents to-morrow.

AT THE WIGWAM.

When the unfortunate fact was announced that the wigwam was flooded with water on Wednesday morning, and it was known that the day's session of the Convention could not be held there, people wondered what use could be made of the huge building. The question was very effectually answered yesterday. Long before the head of the procession had reached Allegheny Commons, the wigwam was thronged with men, women and children, and the space round about, as at the great Cleveland Convention, were crowded extensively. Several hours elapsed after the crowd first assembled on the grounds before the procession arrived, but the great assembly increased instead of diminishing until half past two o'clock, when the head of the procession arrived. The scene of gay excitement at this time it would be impossible to describe. The crowd stationed on the grounds swelled with immense accessions from the column, and after a short time the throng grew dense about the four speakers' stands, and at about three o'clock the speakers began to address the crowds from the several platforms. At the first stand the first speaker was General Cochran, of New York.

Gen. John Cochran, of New York, was introduced by John W. Riddell, Esq., Chairman of County Executive Committee, and was received with cheers.

GENERAL COCHRAN'S SPEECH.

Gen. Cochran said: I have been requested by a few introductory remarks, to introduce your presiding officer. We have all received in this country, or at least ought to have received, the education which is the inheritance of us all. In the olden times, when warriors were defeated and brought captive to the feet of Rome, the triumphal procession wended up the steps of the Capitol. That procession consisted of humiliated captives, of banners, trophies secured by the ambition of mighty chieftains. How different the procession which you, in your civic country, have brought from yonder city up here to Allegheny to-day. You have brought no captive slaves—you have brought no riveted chains—you have brought with you no military trophies. But the people have come proudly in your column, bearing aloft its broken fetters, and the [illegible] [illegible] placed the trophies of [illegible]. You stand here then, to-day, fellow-citizens, representatives of that great civic procession which, from this point in your State, is to march steadily forward to its object point—the polls—in the coming October. That are your fortress of attack. They will be achieved by the united votes of the [illegible] Pennsylvania on that day, with the [illegible] full of oppression, with the crushing of [illegible] [illegible], will be heard ascending to the [illegible] a glorious shout of [illegible] and Freedom. (Cheers.) Gentlemen, I have come from your sister State, New York, to bear to you here her greeting to-day. I ask you to send to your thirty thousand majority for Congressional reconstruction, and I pledge you, in the name of that great Empire State, that she will, by your encouragement, follow in your lead, deposit for the same great principles her majority in November anywhere from 50,000 to 75,000. (Cheers.) I bring with me here, gentlemen, under instructions, and with supreme gratification, in my right hand, the nomination of a presiding officer of you on this occasion, a son of old New England. He comes from the iron bound coasts, from the illuminated area of that great State, Massachusetts. (Applause.) He not only comes to you with the civic wreath entwining his brow, but there is mingled with it the grateful leaves of his military laurels, and he stands before you and the country proud and applauded. He is dear to the American heart, for he is an American. He is supported by the American voice, for he speaks American opinions. He is rejoiced by the popular sense, for he is one of its best exponents. He is the soldiers' friend. He is the soldier himself. Proud at the head of his column he has achieved glory in the field, and he comes here with civic fame and military glory both, and places them at your feet. I propose to you, gentlemen, as President of this meeting, General N. P. Banks, of Massachusetts.

This nomination was received with great cheers, amid which General Banks came forward and spoke as follows:

SPEECH OF GENERAL BANKS.

"Citizens of the United States, soldiers and Sailors, defenders of the country, citizens of Pennsylvania, supporters of the liberties of the people: It is not for a want of interest in the cause which you represent—not from want of appreciation of the importance of the occasion that I feel a reluctance in assuming the position with which I have been honored. But it is from the fear that from physical exhaustion I shall be unable to discharge my duties to your satisfaction. I trust, therefore, that you will bear with me until for a moment or two I shall find by chance whether I can go on or not.

Thank God for this auspicious sun—the sun of victory—the sun of liberty—the sun of universal justice, that shines upon all men, upon all nations, and represents the glory and the goodness of the common father of all people. Thanks, in the name of the soldiers and sailors, I say, to the people of the city of Pittsburgh, that, with a unanimity unparalleled, with a generous hospitality unequalled, they received at their hearthstones the defenders of this country, on the land and on the sea. Thanks to the citizens of Pennsylvania, that from every quarter they gathered here in numbers that cannot be computed, and with a spirit that can never be expressed, to give utterance to the determination of the American people at the polls, and to vindicate their liberties, as heretofore, on the field of battle they have sealed and sanctified with their blood. (Applause.)

Fellow citizens, at the beginning of the campaign it is usual to expect a fight. The soldiers and the sailors, officers and enlisted men, will bear me out in the declaration that at the beginning of our campaign there is no battle in prospect. There is no enemy. He is beaten. He has abandoned the field, and we have to do is to seal our victory with such power and such unanimity that the enemies of the glorious flag of our country never on the American continent, South or North, shall show themselves again. (Applause.) You will ask me who fought this battle, and who won the fight. It was the Boys in blue, the Union men, the friends of liberty of the glorious State of Maine. The moment Maine had spoken the enemy took down his flag, as he lowered it at Pittsburgh Landing, at Vicksburg, at Port Hudson, as in Tennessee, under Rosecrans, Hooker and Thomas, as he lowered it before Sherman in his [illegible] from the mountain to the sea, [illegible] for the last time before Grant at Richmond, so at this time he has again lowered it before the American people. Thank God, then, for the auspicious occasion that draws us together. Thank God for the glorious assurance of a permanent history. Thank God for the presence of these thousands—I might say hundreds of thousands, of our people on this bright and beautiful and happy day. I need not give you proof of the fact that the enemy has surrendered this contest to us. If you ask it, I show you the New York Herald, that advises the President of the United States to go over to the party of Congress, and to accept the Platform. I show you the New York Times, the organ and mouth-piece of the Philadelphia Convention in August, that declares that there never was anybody opposed to the Congressional platform and the Constitutional amendment, and denounces Greeley and the Tribune, because they are not sufficiently strong against the rebels. (Laughter.) I show you the New York World, that, repenting of its flagitious political sins of the past, now announces that it is going to publish in the future Mr. Beecher's sermons, by way of atonement. To-morrow or the next day that rebel sheet, the New York News will most likely announce that it has secured the services of Thad. Stevens as a contributor. (Laughter.) I would not be surprised if the New York Express should invite Fred. Douglass to act as associate editor; but I do not think Douglass would stand that. (Great laughter.) And the London Times, and the Moniteur of France, very likely will insist upon obtaining the services of Miss Anna Dickinson as the American editor of those anti-American sheets.

Thus, everywhere, all around us, we see the evidences and the proof that the victory we require is ours. On our side there is little or no defection. We have the same enemies to fight that we have fought during the last four years. In the first place there are the rebels of the South, beaten in the field by the bullets of the Boys in Blue, and to be beaten at the ballot box by the votes of American freemen. They are against us. The officers of the prison houses of the South are against us, the copperheads of the North are against us. A portion of the old fashioned democracy, a small portion that has deserted the land marks of that glorious party of the early history of our country, has ranged itself, I am sorry to say, under the lead of those who are the enemies of this country. On our side, we have the glorious army of the Republic, and the navy of the Republic, headed by Grant on the one hand and by that sea lion, Admiral Farragut on the other. Gen. Grant has given you his platform. "It is an insult" he says, "to ask an American soldier to vote for a man like Clymer," and Admiral Farragut has the same hostility to the enemies of his country and the same devotion to its friends and its flag that he had when, showing himself greater than any of the naval heroes of England and France, he ran the batteries of the Mississippi below New Orleans, and at Port Hudson, and again when he lashed himself to the mast of his wooden vessel that he might direct the fire of his wooden ships against the iron-clads and the stony fortresses of the enemy at Mobile.

You have seen in the beautiful city of Pittsburgh the soldiers of the Republic assembled by their representatives, uniting with one voice and one heart, in favor of the cause of the country as it is presented by the Representatives of the people at this time. Who has left us? And echo here asks: who has left us? Here and there a man. Wherever one has, here and there, he is making preparations to come back to the party he has deserted.

The first political convention that I ever attended in my life was in 1840, when I commenced my political career. As a citizen of Massachusetts, I attended a Democratic Convention at Springfield, in that State. We there heard the voice of Maine, as we have heard it this year, but not under the same circumstances. The Democracy, confident of its cause, made a vigorous and valiant fight for the supremacy in that year. The fight here in Pennsylvania I remember perfectly well. By a majority of three or four, or five hundred they were defeated in the October campaign of that year. It was not then the voice of Maine calling upon the enemy to disperse or to surrender his flag, as she does now. Among the delegates from my State was a poor man addicted to hard cider; confident of his principles, but unsteady in his underpinnings from having partaken too much of the hospitalities of our opponents. Coming home over the green meadows of Connecticut, on the old-fashioned stage coach, on a morning not unlike this, except as regards the prospect, this Democratic brother slipped from the coach down into the valley beneath. We were then too short of members to lose any body, so we dismounted and lifted our friend up on to the coach. Again the driver cracked his whip, and along we rolled upon the green sward of that unsurpassed valley, unless it be by the Susquehanna, or the beautiful valleys between your mountains here. By and by, said this hard-cider delegate, "Driver that was a bad turn over." "Oh, no," said the driver, "We didn't turn over." "What," said the delegate, "We didn't turn over! Why if I had known that—to me if I'd got out." Now there are a few of our friends that have slipped off the Union coach, but they supposed that the Union Republican coach had met with an over-turn. If they had not supposed that they would not have got out, and having ascertained their mistake they are making their way back again to the old camp and the old flag. It is not wise to reject a brother, or a friend, because he had made a mistake. We receive again into our camp, and under the roof of our Wigwam, to the warmth of our hearts, to the prosperity and freedom of our country, all our recusant, all hard-cider our coach-jumping friends, as soon as they are ready to return; and, with the same generous spirit—a spirit that the American people alone have exhibited towards conquered domestic enemies—we will receive our rebel opponents when they have given to us satisfactory assurances that they are no longer enemies, but the friends of liberty and the Government.

I am sorry to say the world does not go on better. The men I thought dangerous political enemies in 1840 used to regale themselves upon hard cider, and lived in log cabins. I never fully understood exactly the reason of that policy until I heard of a distinguished Judge, who was charged with taking too much beer, and being asked to account for his frequent excessive potation which he often made, said: "Well, I find it necessary to bring myself to the level of my Associate Judges," and so the great leaders of 1840 took this course to make all things level. But hard cider don't answer now. I see by the transparencies in that magnificent torchlight procession the other night, too frequent evidences that whisky is the drink of 1866, on the part of the citizens of the rebels, and I said, why do they take to whisky? Certainly, it is not necessary for them to bring their intellect down to the level of that of the American people. But a young lady who stood by me suggested very wisely that it was necessary to deaden the conscience, and that is the fact, and I saw the confirmation of it in the same procession in a few minutes after when I read another transparency that the [illegible] of the damned are fearful. We have then, fellow citizens, the assurance not only that our enemies are beaten, but that our own ranks are unbroken except by here and there a deserter, who having discovered the error of his course, is making his way back precisely as an enemy of this country who having allied himself to the rebel cause and left his own land—the land where his fathers fought and died—steps, on the foreign shore, and gets a sight of the "stars and stripes" waving and floating in the azure air of heaven, and then the American spirit returns to him, and he thinks it is necessary to have a friend in his government and a protector in his flag, and so we shall find just as soon as a few of the sophistries of this day have been dispelled, that all the American people without exception, east and west, north and south, will be ready to hail with joy the day when the flag of our country shall cover one people, united for one purpose, and in one destiny—that is the prosperity of the American government and the unrestricted, unrestrained liberty of all its people.

Fellow Citizens, the issue before us this canvass is more simple than any that has ever before been presented to the people of this country. A child can comprehend it, and a wayfaring man, though a fool, may read and understand its truth. It is simply, whether the people or the enemies of this country are entitled to its government. It is simply whether the rebels shall make laws for us, or whether the loyal men, soldiers, sailors and citizens, shall be invested with that highest function ever given to man. Do not be deceived, fellow citizens of Pennsylvania. There is no other issue than that I have stated. It is, shall the enemies of this country rule and direct it, or shall its destinies be committed to the hands of its own friends, protectors and supporters. They tell you that we are running off on various minor, unimportant, but yet interesting questions, such as these; that we mean to oppose the return of the rebel States into the Union. That is not true. There is not a man among these thousands here—there is not a man, no, thank God, nor a woman, nor a child that is to be a man or woman, who will not welcome the day when the flag of our country shall cover all the States and all the people of the continent. We only ask that there shall be security—that there shall be safety; that the blood of Pennsylvania's sons—that the blood of the East and the West, as well as the Middle States, shall not have been shed in vain. And who is there to deny the right in having an assurance of safety and the perpetuity to our institutions. They tell you again that our object is to establish equal rights, socially, morally and politically, between the negro and the white. This is not the truth but read the declaration of the soldiers and sailors made yesterday in your city, and you will find the true love presented. I hesitate not to declare that in my judgment the platform adopted by the Convention of Pittsburgh this week will be the declaration of principles that the country will adopt. The country recognizes in the men by whom this platform has been put forth men without personal interest—men who serving their country in the ranks have been discharged from the offices of the Government, because they choose to come here to Pittsburgh to attend this Convention. The people of the United States, will accept the platform of the Soldier's and Sailor's, because they know their friends came here without partizan or personal interest, and because they state in substance and truth, the exact feeling and the wish of the people of this country. It is in a word, that the liberty of America as contemplated by our fathers; as perfected by them as far as could be in their time, shall be preserved in our day, and that to us and our children, and our children's children, to the end of Time shall be maintained and perfected until before God no nation shall recognize the rights of man or the laws of God as the nation of the American recognizes them. But I do not deny—no, far be it for me—I do not deny that we look to the day when all the people of this country without regard to race, or color, or condition, or to character, shall be recognized as citizens, and invested with its true light. Liberty for all is what we require, and it does not diminish the experience of our own government, or the teaching of the immortal apostles of liberty in other parts of the world, tell us what that is. "It is," says Cowper, "liberty that gives the flower of fleeting life its rich perfume," and we are slaves without it. "All restraints except what wisdom lays on evil men is wicked"—that is the platform of the Republican party to-day—that is the platform on which we wish to fight our battle. There is no security except where the industrial population of the land is elevated and protected in their rights, and contented in their condition.

Our late immortal President Lincoln has told us the negro must not be forgotten; "My word," said he, "is out for him, and I will stand by him, for his rights must be ultimately secured." Yes, Father Abraham, your word upon this mundane sphere so far as lies in the power of your children shall be made good and your record, and the record of your supporters shall be white as the angelic robes that float about your immortal throne of God. (Cheers.) We will never forget the colored man that has been made free; we will never be silent until he shall become rewarded his whole rights socially and politically. But I say again, that question is not presented in the platform of this day. The single issue that is for us, that through us is for the heroes that died before us—the men that on sea and land have yielded up their spirit in defense of the country, for them that issue that we present is that the enemies of the country shall not be immediately restored to power. Now, our contest would have been simple, and victory would have been secure, the Union of this country. North and South, would have been perfect but for one of those Providences of God inscribed to us, but perfectly apparent to Him, who has opened a new and unexpected chapter on this continent.

Gen. Banks continued to discuss the subject at some length and in a forcible manner, concluding his remarks with a patriotic and eloquent peroration, which elicited rounds of enthusiastic applause.

He was followed by Gen. Franz Siegel, who spoke as follows:

SPEECH OF GEN. FRANZ SEIGEL.

Soldiers and Friends:—I know that all of you can hardly understand what I am about to say, but as I am a very little man, and a little weak, I will confine myself to a very few remarks. Citizens of the State of Pennsylvania, you have to-day shown to the world that when a question arises as to who shall be the master of the land, that it is the people, and not a single man, as high as he may stand. You, the people of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, have to-day shown that you are a dignified people; that if the President of the United States does not come quite up to this word—dignified—that you can show him how to do it. I thank you in the name of all the loyalists whose representative I am—the loyalists of Maryland—that you have turned out to-day "one hundred thousand strong" to show that you are alive to to the great task before. I come here as a Marylander, from a former slave state, from a state whose Governor is against the progressive policy; a State which shows the first mark of the rebellion in her principal city, Baltimore; the State in which a volunteer soldier, Maj. Gen. Butler, showed that the arms of the Union were stronger than the arms of rebellion. I come from that State of Maryland to say to you that few as we are—few as the loyal people are in comparison with the reactionary majority who have ruled in former times, that we will stand by the flag of the Union, and that we will fight out, with you, this great campaign which you have so nobly begun to-day. I come to you to say that the soldiers of Maryland are always prepared to assist the great party of the Union, to say that the twenty thousand men who, from the State of Maryland, have fought in this war, will never form a part of the reactionary party, who are now ruling the State of Maryland. I come to you to say that as long as the secessionists will only talk, and will only try their strength at the ballot box; as long as they will only, as in Washington, come together to form a Convention and to declare their principles, so long we will tolerate such a company of Northern and Southern conspirators against this great republic. But I am here to declare, in the name of my comrades, that if such a convention—that if such an organization would try to declare themselves the Congress of the United States; that we will gird about us our swords and quickly march to the city of Washington. Yet, as long as they confine themselves to mere words which do not [illegible] the authority of the law making power of the land, we will tolerate them, but if they try with the help of an erring President to declare themselves the law making power of the land, and to create a revolution in the name of reaction, in the name of southern rebels, in the name former slave holders, the time has come for the people of the North to rise in their power, and to do what they have planted the "star Spangled Banner" in every stronghold of the south, and so even in every secesh stronghold of the North. The people of this Republican Constitution in 1776 fought for the independence of the Colonies of England. They created a nation which is now, in regard to material wealth and power; in regard to patriotism; in regard to the enlightenment of the people, one of the greatest nations of this globe, and in 1812 and '14 they renewed the struggle, but in the name of your independence from foreign nations you have come into the circle of the old nations of the world, and you showed that you could maintain your position at the battle of New Orleans under your tried and true Jackson—not Andrew Johnson. And now, from 1861 to 1865, you have given proof that your Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, and the amendments to the Constitution, shall not be a mere collection of words, but that it shall be a reality, not only in the North, but in the South. You, in this war, have established the great principles of human rights and liberty to become a reality in your whole country. You are resolved by this declaration, by "marching down to the sea"—you are resolved to abide by this declaration in saying that if a Northern man, weak though he may be, a Northern schoolmaster, a Northern shoemaker, a Northern soldier, or a Northern citizen, comes down to the South, either in Charleston or New Orleans, or the smallest places in the remotest corner of the South,—when any citizen of the North comes down to speak in the name of humanity and of liberty, in the name of social, civil and political rights, that he will be safe, that not a hair of his head will be touched without those who perpetrate the crime of attacking him being held to a strict accountability by the powers of the land. There will be no peace, no prosperity till every man, white or black—as I see here a black face before me—shall be safe in the whole country not one in the North, but in the South.—And my friends as I am just speaking about the South, I mean to say that the people of the South who have been loyal to us, except that they should be allowed to speak in the name of political rights, whether you will grant them that privilege or not by your law making powers. They claim the right to speak in the name of the political emancipation of the black people, and they must be protected, whether here or in the South. My friends, you have over you a President who is an ally of the reactionary party now conspiring against the welfare and against the peace of the country. Now tell me, my friends, on what Andrew Johnson basis a policy! I believe it really has no basis. I do not believe he basis his policy on the Constitution which he does not respect. He places his foot on the Constitution, while he makes war on the defenders of the Union, calls them usurpers and traitors, and menaces them with hanging. He makes war against the law making power of the land, while it is clearly defined in the Constitution, that Congress shall have the power to make laws, and you know that Congress is conceded the power to admit States. It is Congress that has power to readmit states that have conspired against the Constitution, and put themselves without the protection of the government. And now Andrew Johnson puts his foot on this Constitution, whilst this Constitution itself is against him, and teaches him what he is to expect, and that he is nothing more than an executive officer, and not a legislative power of the land. Now what will you do with a man that puts himself somewhere and does not like to move? I tell you if you are the stronger you move him. Andrew Johnson speaks always of the people. He says he is the defender of the people—that Congress is tyrannical and despotic—that they do not represent the people, whilst upon the people and their interests he basis his policy, and for them he has arranged his little band against the Union party. Now of what does that people consist? Do you belong to that people? Does he represent you? Does he represent your true interests in conspiring with these secessionists, rebels and Northern Copperheads? (Cries of "No!" "No!") Now can we say the people whose interests are different. (A voice. "Where have you been for the last two or three years? Considerable confusion followed, with cries of "Put him out.") My friends, I tell you what to do. He has only spoken. If he begins to fight put him out. (Applause.) Two or three years ago I was not far from here, and helped to elect Governor Curtin by fifteen thousand majority. Having since learned that there was to be another election here, and that General Geary, an old comrade of mine, who fought at Cedar Mountain, was spoken of for Governor, it induced me to come before you in the State of Pennsylvania, and try to double the majority for this honest man, making thirty thousand majority for Geary, as we made fifteen thousand for Curtin. So much in answer to my friend who asks where I was in the last two or three years.

Now, in referring again to the basis on which the President stands, I would say that every honest white man of the North must be against him, as he cannot base his policy upon them, because the white man of the North does not want to have a foot on his neck, and become a slave. (Cheers.) I believe that there is not a single black man in the North or in the South who would count himself a member of the Presidential party. I believe that Andrew Johnson commits a crime upon the people if he bases his policy on the interest of the negro. How can he suppose that a people whom he wishes to bring under the despotism of former slave holders. How can he suppose that the people who have been in slavery will now exchange their state of slavery for that of serfdom. I do not believe any such thing, and therefore I say that President Johnson cannot base his Policy on 4,000,000 of emancipated slaves. And then, how is it with the Irish and the Germans? Can President Johnson say that he has acted in the name of the Irish people of this country? I believe not, because he knows that in our darkest hour there were thousands of Irishmen who fought in our ranks, yet at the same time there was a power that, whilst used to oppress the Irish at home was exerted to its utmost to assist the South. Who furnished ships and mariners, and everything they could, to injure us? Andrew Johnson knew there was such a people as the English who fought indirectly against the North. Now why, at this moment, when the Irish of America try to assist their own people in Ireland, be so severe with them? Why not go back to that old principle of retaliation, and let all these idea at least try a little? I believe, my friends, Andrew Johnson is very much in the wrong if he believes that he has acted in the interests of the Irish people.

Then as I am myself interested a little in the German question, as there is at least left a little of me during these hard times—a little of me that is German—when you ask me on what side, whether on that of the North or South, the Germans stand, I tell you that a majority of the Germans of this country are standing by you and the American flag. (Applause.) I know that there was from 150,000 to 200,000 of them engaged in this last war. I say of the German population of this country, that they have done well. [A voice—"Nobly."] Yes, and we may expect them to do nobly now. And now let me say that the President of the United States, Andrew Johnson, cannot base his power and his policy on the 20,000,000 of the North, not upon the blacks, for they do not like him, not upon the Irish or the Germans for they do not like him, nor upon the soldiers who also do not like him. I believe, my friends, that of those thirteen hundred thousand men, at least one million would stand by the American Congress and not by Andrew Johnson, should the momentous time come. I hope this moment may never come, when they will have to assume a warlike attitude, but I will say we are now in a campaign in which these one million of soldiers will show that they are on the right side. They will declare by their votes that they are now and forever good citizens of this Republic; that they are for the law making power of the land for Congress and for the amendments proposed to the people, and not to Andrew Johnson and his few military stragglers at Cleveland or elsewhere. Now, in regard to the convention of soldiers at Cleveland, you will allow me to say only a few words. You see there were men there of the regular army, and men of the irregular army. (Laughter.) There was Gen. Gordon Granger and a few others. I do not know much about them, because I did not see or hear much of them from 1861 to 1865. But, my friends, I do know one very particularly. He is the President of this newly formed political military organization called, in the common language of the people, Butter-and-Bread Brigade. (Great laughter.) The honorable gentleman who is the presiding officer of this Butter-Bread Brigade is a former Major General of the United States, and, I would add as a matter of information, is a regular officer and graduate of West Point. As he is a Major General by the power of the United States, I would say that the Butter-Bread Brigade should be promoted to a Butter-Bread Corps. Now, I say to you that the President of the United States bases his policy on the people, and I have shown you that nowhere can this people be found, except, perhaps, in Cleveland, or south of Mason and Dixon's line, and therefore, you may rely upon it as soon as Andrew Johnson of Tennessee, will see that he will have no policy, will reflect a little and beat a hasty retreat—I mean a retreat in regard to the realization of his plans and ideas. Certainly, Andrew Johnson said he would die in the attempt to realize his policy. Do you know that there were some people who had the same idea when Lee marched into the State of Maryland his soldiers said, "We will conquer them in the North or die in the attempt." Now I suppose that many of them have died in the attempt, when they came to Gettysburgh. Some died at Antietam, when they attempted to conquer the North. Fellow citizens, you have in your citizens the power to make peace and make war. It is not only a question of ideas, but of facts. I believe that every man who desires to make this great Union party triumphant, will have to show his face at the great demonstrations of the Northern people. Do that not only at the North, but in the South, and your power will be felt, and these men who to-day conspire against you will be put to flight. It is with you, the laborer, and the workman, and the man of science; with you, and with you the women; it is with you the whole people to whom must confide this question of peace or war. And I tell you that when you begin to come out as you do to-day, your voice will reverberate in thunder tones, not only throughout these great United States, but far across the Atlantic, and will show to the people of European nations, and such Princes as Louis Napoleon that the people of this country will say not only in war but in peace, that they will not allow in their borders a man to rise and say "I am the State, and I am the people," and they will see that there will not be much safety for those beyond the Gulf of Mexico, and I assure you that not only your Clymer, and your men at Cleveland; not only Major General Granger and his friends; not only all the Copperheads that are on the list, will strike their colors and run, but that this Emperor in Mexico will strike his flag and go. It is for you people of an American republic to come forward, and fall in, saying, "March on, as in olden time, because you have an opinion to maintain, to vote for, to fight for, and this shall be your watchword."

RETIREMENT OF GEN. BANKS.

When the applause with which General Siegel's speech had subsided, General Banks again mounted the stand, and stated that he must retire from the assemblage, as he had to take the train for home. He thanked the people for the cordial and hospitable manner in which he and all other delegates to this Convention had been received, and also for the very kind and generous manner in which he had been received as a speaker on that stand. The people of Pittsburgh and Allegheny had proved, by the magnificent reception they had accorded to the representatives of the soldiery and navy, that they were devoted, heart and soul, to the great principles for which the Boys in Blue had fought and suffered. Again he thanked them, and would bear away with him the kindest and most pleasant recollections of Pittsburgh and the great Loyal Convention. General Cochran, of New York, would take his place as presiding officer.

Bowing his farewell, General Banks retired amid applause, and left the platform and the ground.

General Cochran, of New York, stepped upon the platform and stated to the audience that they would now be addressed by a distinguished and eloquent gentleman from New Jersey—that State which had at last been fully restored to the Union. (Applause.)

General Cochran then introduced to the assemblage Major Z. K. Pangborn, of New Jersey, editor of the Jersey City Times.

SPEECH OF MAJ. PANGBORN.

Major Pangborn was received with loud applause, and when quiet was restored, congratulated the people assembled upon the grand loyalty and enthusiasm displayed by them in this magnificent demonstration. If the "humble individual" who has been recently swinging around the circle, were here now, he would find a circle to swing in that he could not possibly get around. (Applause.) This individual would find himself in situations even more embarrassing before he had done with the people at this end of the line. Andrew Johnson has said much during his progress, about "stars." Before October has passed he will see even more "stars" than he has distributed on his way from Washington, back to Washington again. (Laughter and applause.)

The speaker returned his cordial and heartfelt thanks for the reception afforded him and his fellow-delegates from all parts of the country. The people of Pittsburgh and Allegheny had won gratitude from all the members of this Convention too great for expression. But let the citizens hereabouts come to Jersey. It is safe now for loyal people to come there, though many as yet are unable to comprehend the fact. (Cheers.) Come to Jersey, and this reception will be reciprocated as far as possible. The people will endeavor to match the pretty girls from the Quaker State with girls as pretty, and the loyal men with others as devoted to the principles of the Union. (Applause.)

Why has this immense throng assembled here to-day? Why have men left their business, and women their homes? Because now every citizen has come to understand that he is part owner of the nation, and that individually they must look to the interests and welfare of the nation. It is only recently that this was understood by the people. The war has brought the fact home to all understandings, and now every one feels that if he would perpetuate and keep from peril the nation whose salvation was secured at such terrible cost, every one must see to its welfare. (Applause.) The question at issue has been, "has any man, President or Congressmen the right to take away from the people this power to guard the same?" The verdict has already been given as to Andrew Johnson, and there is no need to discuss the question. It is not possible that even A. J. himself has failed to observe and make a note of the fact that the people don't intend that he, at any rate, shall take into his own hands the rights and duties of the people. (Cheers.)

The President not only has no right to a policy, but he has no policy, for his words do not agree with his deeds or with each other. There is no need, even if we had the patience, to review all the shifts and changes of Andrew Johnson. His latest point of policy is leaving the thirty-six stars with the people and growing because they do not cheer him more than they do Grant. (Laughter.) There is only one consistent feature in all these changes, and that is the desire and the intention to give his old friends, the rebels, full power to do as they like. That is just where My Policy will fail. (Cheers.)

All this difficulty in the case of President Johnson arises from the taint of an old disease in his veins—the disease of old Democracy. You never can trust an old-fashioned loco-foco Democrat. They always get some unexpected kink and go down with you at some unexpected time in the middle of the stream like the Yankee's pony which was "just as good for fish as he was for game." (Laughter.) Andrew Johnson arrogated to himself the power of making policies and of dictating what he and Secretary Seward and a hundred others may do whether the people like it or not. He thinks we can worship too many gods.

Congress has shown no disposition to take from the people their power of arranging their own affairs. Congress recognizes the fact that they are the servants of the people. All that Congress has not done is not to be approved. They should have disfranchised all rebels. But what they have done is to be thoroughly endorsed. They have placed boundaries beyond which the usurpations of President Johnson must not go. (Cheers.) Congress and the people have anchored their end of the schooner so that it cannot drift upon the breakers. The President may do what he pleases with his end of the craft. (Applause.)

The only question now at issue is the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment. There is nothing in these that should not be endorsed by the whole people, particularly the Executive. A brief review of the provisions of the amendment was given. The first merely provides that every citizen of the nation shall have all the rights of every other citizen. All that it requires is that the maimed soldier of the Boys in Blue shall effect as much by his vote as the abominable Wade Hampton, of South Carolina. (Cheers.) Another provision is that rebels shall not be restored to power until they have given sufficient guarantees. The Ship of State can never be safe with mutineers in the forecastle. (Applause.) Another provision is for the repudiation of the rebel debt. It was best to incorporate this in the Constitution, because then the rebel debt can never be paid without the consent of three-fourths of the people; and when three-fourths of the States decide to pay the rebel debt, then it will be time to leave the country. (Applause.) We must pay our own debt, but not the debts of the rogues who robbed us.

Conservatism as conservatives understand it, means the saving of everything old, no matter how mischievous, and the rejection of everything new, no matter how valuable. It is best illustrated by the tea pot which was used by a conservative old maid. It had belonged to her great grandmother, and she determined never to draw tea in any other. One day the handle melted off, but the tea pot was still the same, and she would never use any other. Shortly afterwards the "snozzle" melted off, but the old tea pot still drew tea for the old maid. At last a mischievous boy punched a big hole through the bottom. After this the old maid, though she still recognized the tea pot as the same old one, could not use it. But she was strictly conservative and would never use any other. (Laughter.) So with democracy. We melted off the handle in 1856. In 1860 we took the "snozzle" off, and during the war we knocked the entire bottom out, but still the conservatives cling to the wrecked old tea pot democracy, and now they will never drink tea made in any other vessel. (Great cheering.)

The speaker closed his remarks with an eloquent appeal to the people to be true to themselves and their principles. He retired accompanied by the most enthusiastic applause.

CHAPLAIN DENNISON'S REMARKS.

General Cochrane next introduced Chaplain Frederick Dennison, of Rhode Island, a man who had been with soldiers in the field through the hottest part of the war; who had been three years in the army and had done duty in four Rebel States. Chaplain Dennison was received with loud applause, and spoke brief, but in a most telling manner. He paid a touching and gratifying tribute to the soldiers and citizens of Pennsylvania, and wished to state, as a member of the Committee on Resolutions at the late Convention, that the platform adopted was not a cut and dried affair which had been concocted before coming to the Convention, but was made here from materials furnished by the members of the Convention. (Cheers.) The work now ready for the soldiers is to stand by Congress. Congress stood by them when in the field, and now is the time to show their appreciation of the support rendered. There will not be another war. We have passed through the physical crisis, and now the moral crisis—a higher and much more trying ordeal—is upon us. An earnest appeal was made to those who displayed such magnificent physical heroism, to make the higher display of moral heroism demanded by the present crisis. (Applause.)

At the close of Chaplain Dennison's able remarks, General Cochrane announced that no other speakers would address the assembly, and bade farewell to them in a very neat and happy manner, after which the vast concourse gradually dispersed.

THE OTHER STANDS.

Besides the lower stand at which the speeches we have mentioned were delivered, three others were constantly occupied by prominent speakers. General Butler made a short but effective speech of only fifteen minutes, just before bidding adieu to the city. Captain G. P. Edgar, of New Jersey, Gen. J. K. Moorhead, Gen. Banks, Gen. Sigel, Gen. Fisher, Gen. Gibson, of Ohio, and other speakers addressed the crowd by turns from the different stands, and kept the immense throng interested to the last.

Adjourned Meeting of the Survivors of Rebel Prisons.

Pursuant to adjournment, a meeting of the survivors of Libby Prison, together with others who were inmates of rebel prisons, was held last night at the rooms of the Indiana Delegation at the Monongahela House, for the purpose of completing the organization known as the Association of Rebel Prison Survivors. General Streight occupied the chair, and Captain Gamble and Josiah Copley Jr. acted as Secretaries.

The Committee on Constitution and Circular offered the following as their report:

CIRCULAR.

To all Survivors of Rebel Prisons—Comrades:

The survivors of the thousands of loyal men who were incarcerated in Southern prisons, desirous of forming a society among themselves, for the purpose of renewing and perpetuating the friendships which were then cemented by mutual suffering, affording aid to such of our number as have been rendered helpless by rebel barbarity, and of collecting the materials for a history, as full and accurate as possible of our imprisonment, have initiated such an organization.

A meeting of returned prisoners from a large number of States was held at Pittsburgh on the 26th of September, 1866. At this meeting "the Association of Rebel-Prison Survivors" was organized by choosing General A. D. Streight, of Indiana, permanent President, and Vice-Presidents from each of the States represented as follows:

LIST OF VICE PRESIDENTS.

Col. John Bedell, Nashua, N. H.
Col. Sam'l M'Kee, Mt. Sterling, Ky.
Capt. Frank Jocelyn, Boston, Mass.
H. C. Sawyer, New Jersey.
Capt. L. B. Blinn, Toledo, Iowa.
Col. W. A. Robinson, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Gen. R. G. Northcott, Clarksburg, W. Va.
Maj. Thos. G. Smith, Jackson, Tenn.
Gov. Fletcher, St. Louis, Mo.
Capt. Milton Russell, North Salem, Ind.
Lieut. Rudolph Kost, Bridgeport, Conn.
N. W. Bendick, Wisconsin.
Capt. A. W. Tourgee, Greensboro, N. C.
Chaplain J. Moxon, Battle Creek, Mich.
Lieut. E. Ware, Bangor, Maine.
Maj. C. E. White, Baltimore, Md.
Col. A. T. Wilcox, Omaha, Nebraska.
Gen. G. W. Shurtliff, Oberlin, Ohio.
Lieut. Col. M'Macken, Paris, Edgar co., Ill.
Capt. W. H. Snowden, Alexandria, Va.

A beginning having been thus made, we appeal to our late comrades in prison, to join with us in making this association co-extensive with our country. To this end let each returned prisoner put himself into communication with the Vice President appointed for the State to which he belongs, and be enrolled as a member of the branch association of his State. Those becoming members will aid in collecting and forwarding such information as may be used in compiling a history of southern prisons, and especially in relation to those of our fellow prisoners whose fate is unknown to their relatives and friends.

With such purposes in view, we feel assured that our fellow prisoners generally will join us in carrying them into effect by using every means conducive to that end.

Of the loyal press of our country, we beg the favor a wide publication of this circular.

Committee.—Chaplain J. Moxon, Chairman; Josiah Copley, Jr., S. P. Gamble.

3. Where imprisoned.
4. When released.
5. Names and address of comrades in prison—if remembered.
6. To what organization belonging, if soldiers or sailors, and what rank.
7. What instances of outrage upon prisoners are you cognizant of.

General Streight suggested that it would be proper to elect a Treasurer, and the name of General August Willich having been offered, he was unanimously elected.

Capt. Tourgee offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the President, by and with the assent of five of the Vice Presidents, shall be empowered to appoint all necessary committees, and make all needful regulations for the collection of information, and other business of the association, until the next annual meeting.

Captain Gamble moved, as an amendment, that all the Vice Presidents act in concert with the President, as a committee to collect information.

It was moved that the resolution and amendment be laid upon the table, which was carried.

A motion was adopted to take up a collection for the purpose of defraying the expenses of printing and publishing, and Colonel Robinson was empowered to receive the funds.

Mr. Copley moved that the thanks of the association be tendered to the members of the Indiana Delegation, for the courtesy extended in granting their room, and to the Gazette, Commercial, Dispatch and other journals who have published the proceedings of the meeting. Carried.

As there were a number of amendments to resolutions pending before the house, Chaplain Moxon moved that for the purpose of simplifying the record, and relieving it of all cumbersome matter, the amendments be withdrawn. The motion was carried.

Several gentlemen related instances in which Southern women, at the risk of life and property gave relief to Union soldiers, and spoke in favor of recommending Congress to make appropriations for the relief of those women who have been thoroughly impoverished by the war. The matter was looked upon in a favorable light by the association, and Congress will be memorialized upon the subject.

The association then adjourned to meet again at the call of the President.

Murderous Attack.—Yesterday evening as a delegation of Butchers, who had taken part in the procession in this city, were returning to their homes in Birmingham, they were attacked by a crowd of roughs on Carson street, and in the melee that ensued a butcher named Metz was so severely beaten that his recovery is considered doubtful. There was a rumor in the city last evening that Metz was dead, but we have no confirmation of the report.

CLOSING SCENES OF THE CONVENTION.

The closing session of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention, at City Hall, on Wednesday afternoon, greatly surpassed anything we have ever witnessed for earnestness, enthusiasm and spirit-stirring eloquence. A large portion of that spacious hall was filled with the representatives of the heroic men who bore our flag in triumph on many a battle field; and on this occasion they bore themselves as if they felt that they were moving down in the grandest charge that they ever made upon the common foe, and that the strongholds of that enemy were already carried and his lines irretrievably shattered. Their shouts were those of soldiers twice victorious, not those of noisy and excited partizans; and the speakers, in their short and fervid addresses, rose, under the inspiration of the hour, to a degree of eloquence rarely equalled.

The whole scene, taken together, was truly sublime. The densely packed hall, the hundreds and hundreds of war-scarred veterans from almost every State—from the rugged shores of Maine to the golden gates of California—from Kansas and Virginia, from Vermont and Texas, conjoined with the countless multitudes of these cities and its populous surroundings, was a spectacle exceedingly impressive. All were glad, all exultant, all animated as by one spirit, and all filled with an intense resolve that in this greatest of our country's battles, they would finish the war, conquer a lasting peace, secure the blessings of Freedom for themselves and their posterity, and "proclaim Liberty throughout all the land and to all the inhabitants thereof." Truly the utterance of this great convocation was as "the voice of many waters." Its reverberations will shake the nation; and its echoes will still be audible when the men who bore a part in it shall have rested from their labors.

THE PROCESSION.

As viewed from the windows of the office of the GAZETTE, was one of the most imposing displays upon which our eyes ever rested. As it moved its huge length along, Fifth street, as far as could be seen from this elevated point of view, was one dense living mass, except a narrow line in the centre through which the procession passed.

For an hour and a half the everchanging column emerged from Smithfield street and turned down Fifth. Never, probably, did any eye which gazed upon this wondrous pageant see such variety, reaching from the elegant and the gorgeous to the plain, the simple and the grotesque. Thousands were on horseback, thousands more on foot, and other thousands in all manner of vehicles. The gilded coach, the ponderous wagon, and even the ice wagon and water cart were brought into service, in numbers which no one pretended to count.

It was emphatically an outpouring of the people, and of all classes of the people—all animated by one principle, all jubilant, all exultant, and each one giving expression to his opinions or his joy as best pleased himself, in shouts, in song, in pictorial device, in terse mottoes expressive of sentiment or stern purpose, or in some funny conceit, which drew from the assembled thousands cheers and laughter.

Taken all in all, this demonstration surpasses anything heretofore witnessed in this city. Nor was it an idle display. There is a depth of feeling and a fixedness of purpose among the people, altogether beyond precedent. The attempt of one man to substitute his will for the will of the whole people, has stirred the popular mind to its lowest depths, exciting the most serious apprehension for what may be in the womb of the future, but arming all to meet it with an invincible courage and a prevailing fortitude.

Nor will the effect of this vast popular display end with this city and county. Already the report of it is sweeping over the whole country, electrifying the hearts of patriots and appalling that evil brood of traitors and dissemblers who hoped to escape the forfeitures of their political crimes, and to wrench the control of the government out of the hands of the men who saved it from destruction.

THE Louisville Journal is disgusted with a condition of affairs which it contributed largely to induce. Hear it:

> "Surely there is nothing in all human history like the present condition of political affairs among us. Never before was there a case where men rebelled against their Government, strove to subvert and shatter it, failed in their efforts, laid down their arms, threw themselves upon the mercy of the conqueror, swore oaths of submission and allegiance, obtained gracious and magnanimous pardon, and then had the effrontery to assume that their treasonable action against the Government was good ground upon which to expect and demand the right to control it, and to seize its honors and emoluments."

There is one compensation, however, that our contemporary fails to notice. The rebels and their apologists have exhibited such insufferable arrogance in pressing their demands to be accounted not only as good—but better than men who never swerved from their loyalty, that they have hopelessly damaged their own chances of success. Had they exhibited even simulated modesty and diffidence they might have prevailed. Now they will have to stand back and accept such terms as the conqueror may see fit to impose.

IT is conjectured that the appointment of General Dix as Minister to France was made with reference to the Mexican question.

PLOT MISCARRIED.

The campaign which the President, after months of deceptive professions and secret plottings, opened against Congress and the loyal masses as represented therein, is a total failure. Some men who were in the conspiracy, and went so far as fully to disclose their complicity in it, scented defeat from afar, and deserted the President with the same facility with which they betrayed their former associates. Insincerity is in their natures, and it will come out. Of course, they seek to cover up their utter hallowness by extraordinary zeal for Congress; but by all their artifice they do not succeed even in the easy game of self-deception, much less in deceiving the multitude. Others went on until the recent uprising of the people, provoked and precipitated by the infatuated audacity of the President, evinced in his formal progress through the country. Now, they are imploring the President to restrain his impetuosity, to revise his plans, and not to dare a collision which must involve himself and all who follow him in certain destruction. To superficial observers these may appear worse men than those who made as eager haste to forsake the conspiracy as they did to get into it. Careful judges will be apt to rate them as decidedly better.

Whether the President has sufficient sense and discretion to heed the counsels now pressed upon him, to repudiate his own Policy, and submit with the best grace he can to the determination of Congress, is a point we do not care to decide in advance. It matters little, except to himself and those who cling to him, what course he may see proper to adopt. By no possible conduct can he regain the confidence he has forfeited, and reinstate himself in the estimation of the Republican party. His treachery has been so profound, and aimed at so fast and disastrous results, that to condone it would exhibit unparalleled weakness and involve a participation in his infamy.

Oregon, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, New Jersey and Tennessee have ratified the Constitutional Amendment. All the other Northern States will ratify it; and the ten seceding States that are still unrepresented in Congress, will stay in that condition until they shall do likewise. If they remain refractory, they must take the consequences. The Constitutional Amendment presents the mildest terms that will be offered. Persistent rejection of it, especially if attended by such symptoms of continued disloyalty as are now manifested all over the South, may necessitate severer terms.

HOW STRANGERS VIEW IT.

In the account given by the New York Tribune of the Convention here, we find these paragraphs:

> "The people of Pittsburgh have reason to be proud that their city should be selected as the place to hold the largest, greatest and most important Convention that has ever been assembled in America—a Convention of citizen soldiers and sailors, composed of those who braved death and danger, that their country might live. The people here have done themselves credit. No more hospitable and fitting welcome could be given the heroes now here than is being given by the loyal and patriotic people of Pittsburgh. The city has been in a blaze of excitement since yesterday.
> "The decorations of the buildings throughout the city seem to be universal. There is scarcely a building without its flag or banner of welcome. Good taste and care mark the display. During yesterday the streets were crowded, but to-day they are jammed. Fifth street, the Broadway of Pittsburgh, presents a truly magnificent sight in the way of decorations and general excitement. Every train and boat up to this morning brought into the city hosts of delegates, and as each would arrive it would be met by a delegation of citizens, and with flags and music marched through the streets and welcomed by the cheers of the people."

TAKE TIME BY THE FORELOCK.—The miasma which generates epidemic fevers is now rising in clouds under the blazing beams of the dog day sun. Every living body, as well as refuse animal and vegetable matter, emits unwholesome vapors, and in crowded cities and the dense assemblages which business and pleasure call together the elements of disease are evolved. The pressure upon every vital organ is never so great as in the second and third months of summer, and common sense teaches us that these organs require to be reinforced to meet it.

We hold our lives, so to speak, on a REPAIRING LEASE and this is the reason when the process of dilapidation is most rapid and repairs are most required. Therefore BUILD UP, PROP AND SUSTAIN THE POWERS OF NATURE with that mighty vegetable recuperant, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. He who takes it may be said to clothe himself in sanitary mail, against which epidemic disease will hurl its poisoned shafts in vain. This is no gratuitous assertion, but a great MEDICAL FACT, attested by twelve years' experience in every climate of the habitable globe. Extremes of temperature always disturb the functions of the stomach, the bowels the liver and the skin. It is through these that the most dangerous maladies assail us. Tone them in advance with HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, and defy heat and malaria. se26

THE NEW
Spring and Summer Medicine.

FLUID EXTRACT
SARSAPARILLA,
COMBINED WITH
Iodide of Lime,
PREPARED FOR
G. W. FETTES, BOSTON,
BY
James R. Nichols & Co.,
MANUFACTURING CHEMISTS,
MANUFACTURERS OF THE
ELIXIR PERUVIAN BARK
WITH Protoxide of Iron,
Which has become so favorably known as a
Tonic and Restorative,
By Physicians and Invalids in all parts of the country.

The new preparation, "SARSAPARILLA IN A COMBINATION WITH IODIDE OF LIME," presents one of the most prompt alterative agents in a form capable of exerting full action upon the system, and this in minute and pleasant doses. It is conceded that the alterative, resolvent, or tonic effects of Iodine, are exerted most decidedly when associated with other alteratives, in combination; and the Sarsaparilla seems to fulfil perfectly all the favorable requisitions.

The first effect usually observed when "SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE OF LIME" is taken, is an increase of appetite, showing that it has tonic properties of a marked character. Its alterative effects are manifest in its ready combination with the blood and tissues. Hale, scrofulous women and children improve rapidly under its use, and the vital functions assume a healthy condition.

It is admirably adapted to a large number of chronic or acute affections peculiar to children. It is suited to them, both by the mildness and efficiency of Medicinal effect and the pleasant, attractive form of the remedy. It may be given for a long period where constitutional influences are desired, and no repugnance, or disinclination to take the syrup, encountered. In White-Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, and Distortions of the Spine, it should be given persistently, in moderate doses, until relief is obtained.

In the Spring of the Year, and during the Warm Weather,

The accumulation of morbid matters in the system seems to become manifest and very troublesome. Lassitude, Headache, Boils, Costiveness, Loss of Appetite, Pains in the Joints, Indigestion, etc., are very common. Nothing ever devised is better adapted to exterminate or drive off these affections than this new combination of SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE OF LIME.

No preparation like it, or which approximates to it as an

has ever before been placed within the reach of invalids. Indeed, it is an entirely NEW and SCIENTIFIC combination to an extent resembling anything hitherto employed.

The opinion of medical men concerning it, the description of its chemical character, therapeutic value, manner of use, etc., are given in a circular, which can be had at the store of any and all first class Druggists.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

(ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS ON FIRST PAGE.)

Anniversary.—The colored people of this city and adjoining localities, hold a grand anniversary meeting to-day, at the Iron City Park. They celebrate the day in honor of the first emancipation proclamation, issued by the lamented Lincoln. Among the distinguished gentlemen who will be present at the Festival to-day, we notice the name of Mr. Fred. Douglas. No man in the country is more popular than Mr. Douglas, and his wonderful powers of oratory are fully known by the nation at large. He will speak at the Park this morning, and to-night will lecture in Masonic Hall. Every arrangement will be made to afford enjoyment to all who may attend the Festival to-day, and we trust that a large number of visitors will reward the untiring exertions of the Committee having the matter in charge.

A Beautiful Monument.—In the Monongahela City Cemetery, Mrs. Howe, wife of Maj. T. B. Howe, has erected a monument over the remains of her husband, killed at Appomattox Court House. The stone is a marble shaft, surmounted by the American eagle with expanded wings, resting immediately upon a Masonic square and compass. In relief, on the face of the monument, is a flag and sword crossed, and beneath is the inscription. It is well known that Major Howe was killed by the last shot fired between the armies of Lee and Meade, at Appomattox Court House, April 8, 1865. It is a beautiful spot, tastefully surrounded by an evergreen hedge, approached by a flight of stone steps, and is already attracting considerable attention.

Howe's European Circus.—The grand street pageant of this establishment, which is performing to crowded houses in Allegheny city, will positively take place this morning, and pass through the principal streets of Pittsburgh. It was postponed on Wednesday on account of the rain, and yesterday, owing to the crowded state of the principal thoroughfares. But, it will be out this morning with its georgeous array of knights in armor, glittering carriages—its perapatitic Tableaux Vivante, and the live Lion in the streets. It will be a splendid sight, and none should miss it. The Circus Company performs at 2 and 7 p. m., and as the attendance is large, those earliest on the ground will obtain the best seats.

Awful Accident.—Yesterday a veteran soldier, named I. Case, fell from the heavy wagon bearing the Fort Pitt delegation in the procession, at the corner of Fifth and Smithfield streets. The wheels passed over his body, crushing and injuring him in an awful manner between the loins, and badly breaking his skull. He was conveyed to the office of Dr. McCook, who did all in his power to alleviate the sufferings of the injured man. He was afterwards conveyed to his residence, above Felix Lafferty's, on Smithfield street. He will hardly recover from his shocking injuries.

Pic-nic.—The Glass Blowers hold a pic-nic to-day, at McFarland's Grove. A good time may be expected. All are invited to attend. The arrangements made are most complete, and everything will be done to secure the enjoyment of all who may attend. The Glass Blowers are proverbial for the excellence of affairs of this kind gotten up under their supervision. The best of music will be on hands, so that all who desire may trip the light fantastic toe, to their heart's content. An excellent dinner will be served upon the grounds.

In Luck.—An Irishman named Owen McCann, who has been working as a laborer, for $1,50 per day, in the yard of Sterns, Clark & Co., was agreeably surprised last week by the reception of a letter, properly authenticated, authorizing him to take possession of a fortune of twenty-five thousand dollars, left by a distant relative, and consisting partly of money in bank and partly real estate near Milwaukee.

Another Accident.—A runaway horse trampled upon a little girl, whose name we could not ascertain, yesterday, after the procession, at the corner of Fifth and Smithfield streets. She was seriously but not necessarily fatally injured. At the hands of Dr. McCook, to whose office she was conveyed, she received all the attention her condition demanded.

Betting.—A great many bets upon the political result, was made yesterday upon the streets. The Fusionists are quite confidant that Geary will obtain but twenty thousand majority, and willingly stake up their money that he will receive no more. They are slow to bet upon majorities under that number.

The Washington County Semi-Weekly News, published at Marietta, Ohio, is a good medium through which the wholesale merchants and manufacturers of Pittsburgh can make known their business to purchasers along the Ohio and Muskingum Rivers.

A Step Son.—Mr. Henry Reis, residing on the corner of Pride street and Pennsylvania avenue, found a little babe done up in a shawl, left on his door steps, yesterday morning. He took the little waif in, and will kindly care for it.

Serenade.—At an early hour yesterday morning we were complimented by a cheering serenade from the Wisconsin, Missouri, Maryland, Ohio and Rhode Island delegation. We deeply felt the honor of the compliment.

Second Ward Boys in Blue.—This Club is requested to meet this (Friday) evening at half-past seven o'clock, at the headquarters, Wilkins Hall. Those who have capes in their possession will please turn them in.

Crawford County Fair.—The fourteenth annual fair of the Crawford County Agricultural Society will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

All Out.—Although yesterday was a regular market day there was not a single butcher in the market place. The butchers are all loyal and were out in the procession.

Pockets Picked.—We heard of several persons losing their pocket books yesterday during the passing of the procession on Fifth street.

Special Caution.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has become so popular that various parties have put out articles calling them Mrs. Winslow's. Please take notice that the Mrs. Winslow of the Soothing Syrup is not connected with any other article. tvl5:S&w

EARLY TELEGRAMS.

The Murder of Capt. Butts—Letter from General Sheridan—Florida Crops.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The Herald's Washington special says: The Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau has just received a communication from Major General P. H. Sheridan, transmitting the following information in regard to the murder of Captain Butts, whose mysterious disappearance was noticed some days since. Brevet Major J. Cronte, an agent of the Bureau, for the parishes of Sabine and Natchitoches, La., reports that the remains of Captain Butts, he has every reason to believe, have been found about four miles from Mr. Week's plantation on the Natchitoches. Butts stopped all night at Week's house on Saturday, July 8th, the skeleton found exactly corresponding with the description of Butts. Two of the front teeth were broken, and the gold shirt studs and sleeve buttons were found. [illegible] sleeve buttons, but Major Cronte does not remember that he wore studs. From the description of the wound, the ball seems to have passed through the back of his head, passing out at the forehead, and must have killed him instantly.

A Tribune Washington special says: Marquis de Montholon, the French Minister, has failed to receive any confirmation of the rumor that his son had been captured and shot by the Mexican Liberals.

I have it from good authority that Judge Underwood, of the Circuit Court, will not have a session of his Court next month.

A Tribune's Washington special says: Gen. Foster reports from Florida, for August, that the freedmen have received better treatment at the hands of the Courts and planters, and consequently the planting interests of the State are in excellent condition. The prospects of a fine cotton crop are very promising; the caterpillars have appeared, but the cotton balls are so far matured that it cannot be much damaged. The corn crop in the vicinity of Tallahassee and Jackson counties is very poor. In the northern counties it is only a partial yield; in the southern counties it is a good crop—much better than it has been for years. The heat of the summer has caused much malaria sickness. The cholera has appeared at Jacksonville, Apalachicola, and Cedar Keys. The victims are principally negroes.

Whites Murdered by Indians.

FORT LARAMIE, September 24.—Advices received to-day from Fort Phillip Kearney state that the Indians were very troublesome, stealing stock and attacking small parties. On the 13th they captured a Government herd of mules, and wounded two of the guard. On the 14th privates Johnson and Ridgeway, and Mr. Grover, an artist for Frank Leslie's Illustrated paper, were killed and their bodies horribly mutilated. They attempted to capture the pickets near the Fort, but were driven off with the loss of two killed. Two men of Bailey's mining party, while hunting, were killed after a small loss to the Indians.

Reports received from Fort Smith, Dakotah, state there are 500 lodges of Sioux Indians in the Tongue River Valley. They are all hostile. They are determined that the new road to Montana shall not be traveled. Government stock was stolen at Platte Bridge, Dakotah, to-day.

From Canada—Fenians Concentrating for a Raid—Canadians Preparing for a Vigorous Campaign.

NEW YORK, September 27.—A Herald Ottawa, Canada, dispatch says: The Fenians are again concentrating for a raid in various portions of Vermont, and troops are being placed on an extensive war footing. The military force has been formed into brigades, and garrisons for the former, being complete in themselves and prepared to move at a moment's notice. The Commissariat, Quartermaster's Department and Medical Corps have been ordered to supply themselves fully with everything necessary for a vigorous campaign.

The notes of the bank of Upper Canada were quoted at nearly par, and no further failures were anticipated.

American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A Tribune Pittsfield special says: At the session of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions yesterday, Dr. Rufus Anderson resigned the Secretaryship which he has filled for over forty-four years. Various addresses were made on the occasion, and two checks of $10,000 each were presented him by laymen of New England and of New York city. At the morning meeting, the troubles of the American Mission with Bishop Staley, of Honolulu, were discussed. The lack of men for the missionary fields occupied the evening session; and a resolution was adopted to make personal appeals to theological and college students.

Cholera Reports.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Five fresh cases of cholera were reported in the city yesterday. There were no deaths from the disease reported. In Brooklyn there seems to be a slight abatement of the disease, there being only two new cases registered yesterday.

A Herald's Troy dispatch says: The cholera has broken out with fearful violence in the vicinity of North Adams, Massachusetts. There have been eight cases and five deaths, the doctors say, within twenty-two hours.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 27.—There have been twenty-six deaths from cholera in this city in the past twenty-four hours.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 27.—There have been nine deaths and thirty-two new cases of cholera here within the past twenty-four hours.

Bank of Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 27.—Judge Frain, of the Circuit Court of Davidson county, decided that the notes of the Bank of Tennessee, issued prior to May 6th, 1861, are receivable for all taxes and debts due in the State.

Resolution of Thanks.

At a meeting of the Massachusetts delegation, held at the Monongahela House yesterday, the following graceful resolution was unanimously passed. The citizens of Pittsburgh, will always—as they have heretofore—take pride in extending the hospitalities of the Iron City to their loyal friends, let them come from whatever section they will, feeling well assured that the same kindly feeling would be reciprocated under similar circumstances:

Resolved, That the Massachusetts Delegation to the Pittsburgh Convention, tender their most cordial and grateful thanks to the ladies, the Resident and Executive Committees, and the citizens of this patriotic city, for the generous and graceful hospitality with which they have welcomed those who sympathize with their enthusiasm in a just and glorious cause.

Resolved, That this acknowledgment be published in all the daily papers of the city.

By order of the Delegation,

HON. BINNEY SARGENT, Chairman

Acknowledgment by Our Friends.

At a meeting of the Wisconsin delegates to the Pittsburgh Soldiers and Sailors' Convention, held on the 27th inst., the following resolutions were presented by Col. George B. Goodwin, of Wisconsin:

Resolved, That we, the delegates to the Soldiers and Sailors' Convention at Pittsburgh, do hereby extend to the loyal ladies of Pittsburgh our hearty thanks for their hospitality and kindness extended to us while sojourning in their city; and, that we assure them that they will never be forgotten by the Soldiers and Sailors of Wisconsin.

Resolved, That we do hereby extend our thanks to Major General Negley and Major Harris, and others of the Executive Committee and Aides for their attention and kindness to us.

Resolved, That the loyal papers of Pittsburgh be requested to publish the foregoing.

D. J. Crossant, Temporary Chairman.

The English Opera Troupe.

The Philadelphia Press of yesterday contains the following: The English opera season at the Academy of Music is drawing to a close, and on Saturday evening next we shall have to bid good-bye, for a short time only, we hope to this truly great company of artists.

"The Doctor of Alcantara" was repeated last evening, and created as great an impression upon the audience, and was enthusiastically cheered throughout, as upon its previous performance. This evening the "Bohemian Girl" is to be again given, which fact should be sufficient to secure a good house, and we hope it will.

The Richings Opera Troupe, open at the Opera House in Pittsburgh, on Monday night next.

Death of C. W. Ricketson, Esq.—We are pained to announce the sudden death of our esteemed fellow-citizen Charles W. Ricketson, Esq., of the firm of Miller & Ricketson, which took place yesterday at his residence. He was in perfect health up till the morning of the day of his death, but was suddenly smitten down with an attack of cholera morbus. Mr. Ricketson was one of our most respected merchants and influential citizens. His loss will be deeply felt by the entire community. He was a native of Massachusetts, and his remains will be taken thither for burial.

The Allegheny Glee Club.—Last evening the Allegheny Glee Club, which is composed of many of the best vocalists of our city under the direction of Prof. W. H. Slack, serenaded at the house of General W. H. Robinson, his distinguished guest, General N. P. Banks. The club rendered in fine style a number of popular airs which called forth the warmest encomiums from General Banks. After the serenade the club, with a number of distinguished gentlemen, paid their respects to the Gazette and treated us to a similar compliment, for all of which we are thankful.

He reviews his course for the past two years; deplores the breach between the Executive and Congress, which he thinks ought to have been prevented by by concessions on both sides. He says he has nothing in common with the Democrats, and concludes with these words: There are many considerations which would render this unwise. My past action does not command the approval of a large body among those who originally gave me their votes, and apart from such approval, so far as it can be had consistently with proper independence of personal opinion, a seat in Congress ceases to have for me any attraction or to offer any opportunity for useful public service, and I shall best consult my own self respect, as well as the sentiments of my constituents and the interest of the Union cause, by withdrawing my name from the canvass altogether.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

THURSDAY, September 27, 1866.

The New York stock quotations to-day, were as follows: Gold, 145; 1881's, 111¾; Five Twenties, old, 111¾; do, new, 108¾; Ten-Forties, 98¾; Seven Thirties, 105⅞@106; Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, 87¼; Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad 106¼; Erie, Railroad, 78; Chicago & Rock Island, 111⅞; Chicago & North Western, 38¾; do preferred, 68½; Michigan Southern R. R., 85¾; Western Union Telegraph Company, 56⅞.

—It is estimated that at the rate of the present influx of gold supplies from California and Europe, the Treasury will, by the 1st of January next, possess eighty millions in gold after deducting all the sum required in the meantime, for the payment of interest on gold bearing bonds. Ten millions of the twenty-five to be paid for interest will go to foreign bond holders. The question is asked whether the Secretary of the Treasury will suffer the amount of gold to be augmented in the government vaults in view of some plan for a return by degrees to specie payments, or sell it at market rates. The National Intelligencer, in all probability speaking advisedly, answers by declaring that "Mr. McCulloch's course in this respect will undoubtedly be dictated by Congress, and that body will tolerate no measures looking towards a specie standard."

—It is stated on very good authority that Mr. McCulloch will not anticipate the interest due November 1st on the 5-20 bonds, as has been rumored. It will be remembered that on the last occasion when the Secretary paid this interest in advance, he caused it to be semi-officially stated that he should hereafter only pay it at maturity, and he still adheres to this determination, albeit the pressure upon him to do something for the "relief" of the gold market has been strong.

—The import entries for the past week at New York amount to $5,380,902, against the total entries of $5,002,596 same week last year. The export clearances of domestic produce amounted to $2,782,215, against $3,704,475 same week last year. The export of specie amounts to $112,500, against $646,012 same week last year. The customs for the week were $1,418,000. The receipts of cotton, coastwise and by railroad were 4,381 bales. The number of emigrant passengers arrived during the week 2,714. The gold value of the import entries of foreign merchandise at New York since January 1, 1866, the beginning of the current calendar year, to the 22d instant, were $[illegible], against $142,220,885 to same time last year, showing an increase in little over eight months and a half of $86,296,142. The currency value of the exports of domestic produce and miscellaneous goods from New York, including foreign articles re-exported within the same time, is $141,765,170, against $108,095,299 in the same time last year, showing an increase of $33,612,871. The gold premium now is 144¾, about the same as this time last year. The exports of gold to same time is $53,952,150, against $21,382,124 last year, year, showing an increase of $32,152,326. The deliveries from California were $31,612,276, against $3,723,147, showing an increase of $27,884,100. The total customs received at New York was $101,650,530, against $70,451,855 in same time last year.

—The New York Shipping List, speaking in regard to the inflation of commercial values, says:

> The real trouble lies in the inflation of the currency and the onerous burdens of taxation, and until such time as a paper dollar shall equal in purchasing power the gold dollar, commercial values must continue inflated. The redundancy of the currency makes money cheap, and engenders speculation, thus enriching the few at the expense of the many; and the evil must grow upon us unless efficient measures are speedily taken by the governing authorities to bring the currency, at as early a day as possible, to a specie basis, thus avoiding the danger of still greater burdens. When that shall be accomplished, food, clothing, labor, &c., will no longer remain at an unnatural valuation, and the wheels of commerce will no longer be clogged. In all the principal cities of the Union, the same unsatisfactory trade movement prevails to a greater or less extent. The fact is, as remarked by a cotemporary, the people have no confidence in the permanence of present values, and, believing they ought to come down, they act as if they were about to come down to the normal base, practising rigid economy, and buying merchandise from hand to mouth.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, September 27, 1866. }

There was but little business transacted in the produce market to-day, the great majority of our produce dealers having closed up their stores in order to give their employees as well as themselves an opportunity to attend the grand demonstration of the people, and, as a natural consequence, our market report must of necessity be brief. There is some little excitement in Flour and Wheat, owing to the still further advance in the west, but for other articles, the demand is somewhat restricted, and prices are unchanged.

GRAIN—Wheat is very firm, and the market is almost bare. We can report a sale of 150 bush—mixed red and white—at $2,65. No. 1 Spring may be quoted at $2,40 to $2,45. Oats firm but unchanged; small sales from store at 45 to 46. Barley is wanted at $1,10 to $1,12 for prime Spring, and none offering. Sale of 1 car Shelled Corn at 85. Rye is held at 95 to $1.

FLOUR—There is a continued fair local demand, and as the market is firm and somewhat excited, prices are still looking upward. Good to choice brands of Spring Wheat may now be quoted at $12 to $12½, and Winter Wheat at $13 to $14. Small sales of Rye Flour at $5¾ to $6¼, and Cornmeal at $1¼.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is steady with a moderate jobbing demand but unchanged, at 17¼ to 17¾ for Shoulders; 19½ to 20 for Ribbed Sides; and 25 to 26 for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard is dull, while Mess Pork is in light supply, and firm.

SEEDS—Flaxseed is in demand, and sells readily in small lots at $3¼—sales from store at $3¾. Timothy Seed is dull; small sales from store at $3¼. Clover Seed is quoted nominally at $7,50 to $8.

BUTTER—There is a continued fair demand for fresh Butter, and we can report regular sales at 25 to 30, for packed, and 33 to 35 for Roll.

EGGS—In good demand and in light supply; sales reported at 25 to 26.

APPLES—Dull but unchanged at $2 to $5 per bbl, according to quality.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, Sept. 27, 1866 }

CRUDE—There was but very little stir in the Petroleum market to-day, the great majority of the dealers having deserted their posts in order to attend the Convention. We can report a sale of 1200 bbls in bulk, at 14; and quotations may be fairly given at 14, bbls returned and in bulk, and 19, bbls included, and while prices remain unchanged, the market, if anything, is a shade weaker than yesterday, and some holders are more anxious to realize. The river is again in good navigable condition between here and Oil City, and it is probable that the arrivals will continue liberal.

REFINED—There is but comparatively little inquiry for bonded oil, and it is equally true that there is but comparatively little offering. We can report a sale of 200 barrels for immediate delivery in Philadelphia, at 41¾ cents; and 1000 bbls for December delivery, at 36 cts, free on board cars here. Quotations may be fairly given at 35¼ to 36 free on board cars here, and 41¼ to 42, delivered in Philadelphia. For free oil, there is little or no demand, and prices are nominally unchanged.

RESIDUUM—There is some little inquiry for this article, principally on eastern account, but at low figures; sale of 300 bbls at $2,50—holders generally asking $3.

ARRIVALS—We have but three arrivals to report, as follows:

Jackson & Bro..........600	John Munball..........2500
D. Bushnell..........1200
Total	4300

Iron Markets.

NEW YORK, September 26.—For Scotch the market is very firm, and with reduced stocks, prices show an advance, and tend upward; 100 tons Glengarnock sold at $48; 200 do Gartsherrie, in yard, $48, $50 is now asked for Gartsherrie in yard, and $48 from ship; and 1200 do Glengarnock, on terms not made public. A large portion of that now on the way has been sold to consumers at $46. No. 1 American continues in moderate supply, and the market is firm; sales 1800 tons No. 1, at Hudson, at $48, principally to Albany and Troy consumers; the iron is now understood to be well sold up; we notice besides, small sales Lehigh at $48@50, and in some instances at $50 for superior brands; 1500 tons No. 2 ex, $46; 200 do No. 2 gray forge, $42; and No. 2 foundry, which is scarce, $45@46. The store prices of bar, &c., have been reduced $5 per ton.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—Pig metal is in fair demand at full rates, with sales of No. 1 Anthracite at $47; No. 2 at $45@46 per ton, and 200 tons of forge on terms kept private. Scotch pig moves slowly at $48@50. Blooms are unchanged. We quote charcoal at $90@100. Manufactured iron is not much inquired after, but holders are firm in their views.

Seed Markets.

PHILADELPHIA, September 26.—Cloverseed is scarce and in fair demand. Small sales are making at $7@8 per 64 lbs. Timothy is less active; 600 bush sold at $3,50@4,25 per bush, the latter rate for prime. Flaxseed is dull and lower; 300 bush sold at $3,50@3,60 per bush.

NEW YORK, September 26.—In old crop clover there has been considerable activity, about 1500 bags have been taken for export, part at 12c; new is held at 12@12¼. Timothy is in better demand, with sales of 500 bushs at $3@3,50. Flax is dull, and we have only to notice small sales at $3,60.

The Crops.

Continued, excessive rains are causing serious apprehensions as to further excessive damage to the corn crop, and making the business of fall seeding impossible. Very little wheat, Rye or barley has yet been sown, and it is becoming very late in the season to attempt to get these grains in, even were the ground now in prime condition. The condition of matters as they relate to producing interests is, consequently, by no means cheering, and the effect is necessarily to stiffen the markets for all kinds of grain, potatoes, &c.—[Cin. Commercial.

Michigan Central and Illinois Central took the lead on the upward turn, while Michigan Southern, Fort Wayne & Pittsburgh were also better. Erie was the feature of the New York roads, and sold up to 78⅞. The business in New York Central has been large during the day, and the advance has been equal th 2 per cent. There is considerable contest going on for the control of the road at the next election. There has been an increased disposition to buy stocks throughout the day, and the closing prices were generally the highest.

RIVER NEWS.

The river, under the influence of the recent rains, is again rising at this point, with scant ten feet in the channel by the marks last evening. This rise is out of the Allegheny, as the Monongahela, as yet, has risen but little if any. The weather yesterday was clear and pleasant and apparently settled.

The Bayard arrived and departed for Parkersburg, with good trips each way, and the Grey Eagle, from the same point, is due here to-night. The Leni Leoti will leave for Parkersburg to-day at noon.

The Quick-Step came up to the main landing yesterday, and will at once commence loading for Cincinnati, for which point she will leave to-morrow at noon. This fine steamer, in command of Capt. Donaldson, with Sam Barr Jr., in the office, is intended as a regular weekly packet between here and Cincinnati, leaving every Saturday at noon.

The R. C. Gray, from Cincinnati, was due here last night, and will doubtless be found in port this morning. The Bertha, W. A. Caldwell and Glasgow were loading at Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Tuesday.

The Importer, Capt. Noss, and the Ezra Porter, Capt. Porter, both tip-top boats, are announced for New Orleans forthwith. The Porter has already a considerable amount of freight for Red river.

The Belle Vernon, Capt. Darragh, with Mr. Wm. Blackstock in the office, is filling up rapidly for St. Louis, and will leave on Saturday, without fail.

Capt. Frank Marratta has assumed command of the Keaton, Capt. Dunlap, being on the sick list. The Spray came up from the dock where she has been undergoing repairs. Hereafter, the Spray will be commanded by Capt. G. W. Smith, and Frank Whiting is to have charge of the office.

To say the least, the following, from the Louisville Journal, does not reflect on the loyalty of Red river pilots. Not much.

We hear that a number of boats are intending to enter the Red river trade the coming season. During our trip up that crookedest of all streams, in January last, we counted the wrecks of forty-three boats between Shreveport and the mouth of Red river. Of all this number all but five or six were up-river boats, and a pilot said significantly that there was more than one way to keep boats from running on that river. We commend the prospect to our Cincinnati and Pittsburgh boatmen. It is not a flattering one.

Says the Louisville Courier: Captain Perry McNeely was in the city Saturday, from the scene of the disaster to the General Lytle, where he had been at work with his famous diving-bell boat. The segments of the boilers that he recovered from the bottom of the river give ample evidences of the force of the explosion, at the same time exposing the "rottenness" of the iron.

JEFFERSONVILLE, IND., September 25—p. m.—There are 9 feet on the falls for heavy tows of coal to pass out safely. The steamers Darling and Talisman passed up, and the Lotus No. 2 down. The following tow-boats arrived from Pittsburgh: Wild Cat, Bigley, Dart, Fred. Wilson, Lake Erie No. 3, Star, Hawk, and Eagle, all with heavy tows of coal. Hard rain all day. River on a stand to-day. It is quite sickly in Jeffersonville and Louisville.

D. M. Dryden, Falls Pilot.

We clip the following items from the Cincinnati Commercial of Wednesday:

The Ontario sunk in the Missouri River, in Kansas Bend, 15 miles below Nebraska City, a few days since. She was owned in St. Louis, valued at $30,000, and insured for $5,000 in St. Louis, and $15,000 in Cincinnati offices..........The cabin of the Revenue, recently sunk just above Buena Vista, was floated off by the recent freshet, and caught and landed at Rome on Sunday..........Mr. John Pollock has been appointed Surveyor for the Boatmen Insurance in place of Mr. C. S. Betts resigned. ......A portion of the Bertha's cargo consists of 200 tons pig iron and 25 bales cotton.......... ......Capt. Ike Whittaker, of the Arkansas River packet Gabion, arrived here from Pittsburgh by rail yesterday, and left on the Armenia last evening..........The Armenia and Louisville had to lower their chimneys in order to get under the bridge yesterday.
